Youth Rally in D.C. Informs Nation That 'True Love Waits'

Christian musicians provide inspiration, motivation

Members of Newsboys, DeGarmo & Key and Petra along with Geoff Moore and Inter!inc's Allen Weed are shown at the Washington Mall.

"TRUE LOVE WAITS," the sexual abstinence campaign begun in April '93 by the Baptist Sunday School Board, saw the first fruits of its labors July 29, at a national celebration held on Washington's National Mall. An estimated 25,000 teenagers attended the day-long event, co-sponsored by Youth for Christ, whose youth evangelism conference DC '94 was being held concurrently.

A number of contemporary Christian musicians were on hand both to lend support and to take part in the evening's concert rally, which featured Petra, Steven Curtis Chapman, and DeGarmo & Key. Also present were Geoff Moore & The Distance, Newsboys, Lisa Beville, Al Denson, and others.

More than 211,000 signed sexual abstinence pledge cards were received from teens nationwide and displayed on the mall's grassy area, filling the equivalent of several city blocks with a visual display of unity that caught the interest of both local and national media for the event.

According to Richard Ross, campaign spokesperson for the Baptist Sunday School Board, "True Love Waits" is the most widely covered positive news story regarding teenagers in the history of journalism." He cited the over 500 separate news organizations which have covered the campaign in the last 16 months, making special note of those on the site of the event providing either live coverage or gathering material for upcoming stories,

Ross said USA Today, The Washington Post, and The Washington Times all ran front page stories on the event, with live television coverage on C-Span and CNN. The Associated Press ran a full story with two photos on its wire service, and Newsweek was slating the campaign as its cover story this week (Aug 8-12) as The CCM Update went to press. ABC's "World News Tonight" ran a piece for its 'American Journal,' and its newsmagazine "20/20" interviewed many involved with True Love Waits for an upcoming segment devoted to the topic, scheduled to run in September.

Christian Artists Seminar Achieves Record Attendance on 20th Anniversary

THE 20TH ANNUAL Christian Artists Music Seminar, held in Estes Park, Colo. last week, was the largest ever according to Joy Tobelmann, general manager. The seminar, which is held at the Estes Park YMCA, features multiple seminars on virtually every aspect of Christian artistic expression and nightly concerts by top Christian artists. This year's event, which had a theme of "Stand on the Rock and Celebrate Jesus Christ," attracted an all-time record of over 1300 registrants.

The week began with a Sunday evening (July 31) concert put together in cooperation with Reunion Records which featured Michael W. Smith, Kathy Troccoli, Wes King, Clay Crosse and Brent Bourgeois. In accordance with a 20-year tradition, the Celebrant Singers opened the concert.

Monday evening featured Twila Paris, Wayne Watson, First Call, Steve Camp, Greg Buchanan and a performance by Ballet Magnificat. It closed with a rousing, crowd-pleasing performance of Handel's "Hallelujah," featuring several members of the cast of the Young Messiah Tour, including Larnelle Harris.

Tuesday evening's performances included Sandi Patti, Larnelle Harris, Dino, Ralph Carmichael's "Big Band," Dave Boyer and Mark Lowry. "Welcome to Caesar's Palace" quipped Boyer as he

The Inspirational Network (INSP) provided live coverage of the evening concert event, hosted by Lisa Bevil. Ross explained that the network's normal potential viewing audience of eight million homes grew dramatically for the event, as a number of cable operators nationwide carried the telecast on local community access or other available channels, expanding the potential audience to over 30 million homes.

Commenting on the role the musicians played in the campaign, Ross stated, "Teens today are just about out of heroes. To Christian teenagers, these artists are among the few remaining heroes left. The fact that these artists spent the day on the Mall not only thrilled the 25,000 kids who attended, but sent a clear message of support to the statement they were making to the nation."

An integral part of the campaign was the multi-artist album True Love

Waits, which featured songs intended to inspire teens to remain abstinent and keep themselves for their future spouse. The project was coordinated and produced by Interlinc, whose president Allen Weed said 60,000 units (CD and cassette) have already sold through direct mail only, and the album is just now (July 29) being shipped to retail through Spring Arbor. Both Parable Group and Family Bookstores chains have committed to in-store displays for the product. Said Weed, "Sure, we're on target to sell 100,000 the first year, with Family and Parable joining in a major way, but the big deal is the impact this has had for the Kingdom. That's our reward."

A worldwide True Love Waits celebration will be held in conjunction with the Baptist World Alliance in August of 1995, with 150 countries participating, according to Ross, who said the involvement of Christian musicians is a "definite possibility."

completed his first number with the Vegas-style band. Other highlights of the evening included an impromptu performance of "It is Well With My Soul," performed by Dino, who called Patti and Harris to the stage to sing the verses, and Patti and Harris' climactic performance of "I've Just Seen Jesus."

Larnelle Harris was presented with Christian Artists' Music Achievement Award in honor of his 25 years as a Christian artist.

Performances scheduled for later in the week included Steven Curtis Chapman, Take 6, Margaret Becker, Point of Grace, Phil Keaggy, Eric Champion, Andraé Crouch, Ron Kenoly, Al Denson, Cynthia Clawson, Babbie Mason, Steve Taylor and others.

Christian Artists' President Cam Floria said that the week was about "celebrating what God has done here over the past 20 years rather than celebrating the 20th birthday of the seminar." In an interview last week, Floria told The CCM Update that he is happy with what has been accomplished by the seminar through its history. "We're about helping artists get to where they want to go faster, better and more efficiently. This seems to have been the 'birthplace,' or at least the place that has been the point of encouragement to take several careers to the next level," he said.

Floria noted that Estes Park has also served as a point of contact between artists. "I doubt that Twila Paris would have hooked up with Ballet Magnificat had she not seen them here. One of the great things that has happened here is that artists have hooked up with one another. I have really loved seeing the artists intermingled on the stage."

Floria said that future plans include orienting the seminar more for developing artists. "We're going to do all we can to bring in the artists that haven't quite 'gotten there' yet."
